

marlow

biography.

in the mid 1990s, mario weise, better known as marlow, started spinning records at distillery (Leipzig), where he was working as a club-technician.

it was not long before he became resident-dj under the moniker dj elektro and shortly afterwards he started producing tracks. his first release "trust in me" became the number two in the catalogue of the recently founded label moon harbour. his tracks were licensed for numerous compilations and his dj gigs increased - he was booked for his deep jazz, soul and funk-influenced sound by nameable clubs in germany and beyond.

in his productions he has always put quality over quantity, leaving his discography of exclusive compilation tracks and six 12" releases to inspire for far longer than one ibiza season. marlow and moon harbour belong together inseparably in a special way.
