

new 12 inch out now:
various artists - distance learning (curl011)

A new Curl Curl 12" is on the horizon: Distance Learning with various artists.

Simon Flower's latest rise on Steve Bug's Poker Flat is backed up by this new track Eyes and Teeth: firmly aimed at moving the modern house floor.

Chris Lattner (Sick/Fear Of Flying) joins our Curl Curl kaleidoscope with a rolling remix of Phil Brökelmann's Black Dog, recommended for all lovers of Murrur and the like.

Pikaya take the lead and remix Andi Numan's Glass Roots. Pikaya once again deliver their unparalleled cinematic message, microfunk as hell yet deep as a skateboard bowl.

On fourth position, a brand new house mix by Phil Brökelmann (Curl Curl) of the melancholic Mornin' Tide jazz release by Shortboard.

dj feedback distance learning :

anthony collins (freak n chic):

chris' remix is great. alex attias (freedomsoundz): this is awesome. lovin all tracks, full support.

nick curly (cecille):

super release.

mathias kaden (freude am tanzen):

super record!!!!great mixes...

rozzo (mountain people):

both eyes and teeth and black dog (lattner) are really cool, will be played.

deepchild (trapez):

quality deep-house here. original is an inventive and tasty jam!

brothers' vibe (mix records):

tight ep! like all the trax.

d'julz (bass culture):

eyes and teeth in the box, nice work!

mazi (audiosoulproject):

flower's latest is subtle but deadly - organic and yet surgical. will play for sure.

tune into this one-off curl curl show for red bull music academy radio.. to celebrate the new record .. and five years of curl curl
